91 Members Of Gettysburg Class Hear Doctor Fischer; Announce Prizes.

Before a crowd that overflowed the school auditorium, the 1928 class at Gettysburg high school was graduated at colorful commencement exercises, Friday evening. Ninety-one seniors were awarded diplomas, the largest graduating class in the history of the local high school.

The class was so large this year that it was impossible to seat them on the stage of the school auditorium, and the seniors, after marching into the room in caps and gowns, took seats in front of the stage. Each senior wore a white rose, the class flower.

"No Pleasure Without Work" Dr. M. Hadwin Fischer, a member of the faculty of the Lutheran theological seminary here, who delivered the commencement address, advised the seniors to keep on working, and not succumb to the belief that with their graduation everything would come easy for them. "There can be no pleasure in this world unless there is work," Doctor Fischer declared.

In closing his address, the speaker pointed out to the seniors the need of their adhering to Christian principles as a necessary adjunct to success.

Melchor Sheads, valedictorian of the class, chose Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's life, achievements and ambitions as the theme of his address, the subject of which was "A Twentieth Century Knight," the salutatorian, Hugh McIlhenny, who welcomed the parents and friends to the commencement exercises, spoke on the subject "Uncrowned Kings," enumerating examples of men who have given their lives for science, medicine and discovery as deserving of more than the passing comment the world bestows upon them.

The Rev. N. L. Horn, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, gave the invocation and the benediction.

Prizes Awarded
The alumni four-year honor prizes were awarded to Sheads and McIlhenny by C. C. Culp, immediate past president of the high school alumni association. Mrs. H. D. Sheppard, Hanover, regent of the Gettysburg chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, presented Miss Sara Rife with the D. A. R. essay prize, giving honorable mention to Miss Janet Biesecker and William Mickley.

The Chester Rogers memorial freshman boys' prizes were awarded by Lloyd C. Keefe, supervising principal of Gettysburg schools, to Edward Bulleit and Donald Swope. He also presented Joseph Reaser with the American Legion freshman award.

Musical numbers during the evening included selections by the high school orchestra; selections by the Girls' glee club; baritone solo, Emmert Colestock, mixed chorus number.

The class roll was read by G. W. Lefever, principal of the high school, and diplomas were presented to the graduates by Mr. Keefe.

ANDY WEIKERT QUILTS POLICE AFTER 11 YEARS

With John Hartman Will Accept Position As Guard On Battlefield.

After serving nearly 11 years on Gettysburg's police force, Andrew B. Weikert, Railroad street, today announced that he will resign his present position as night patrolman to accept a position as guard on the battlefield.

Officer Weikert said he had informed Burgess C. A. Heiges of his intention to resign, and added that he would present his resignation to council at its June meeting next Thursday evening. He said he would ask to be relieved of his duties either on June 15 or June 30.

Officer Weikert and John W. Hartman, Hanover street, both ex-service men, have been notified by the civil service commission that they stood first and second, respectively, in a recent unannounced examination for the two guard positions open on the battlefield.

Mr. Hartman, who has been living retired since his term as sheriff of Adams county expired more than four years ago, has also announced that he will accept the other guard position. The position pays $1140 a year.

Officer Weikert served three years and three months with Battery 8, Second coast artillery at Fort Warren, Massachusetts, enlisting in June, 1892. He was a bugler with the outfit. Mr. Hartman participated in active fighting over-seas with the 316th infantry.

A large number of applicants sought the two guard positions, and recently the civil service certified to Col. E. E. Davis, superintendent of the national park, the names of nine men who had passed the examination.

The new guards will go on duty at Devils Den and Little Round Top probably before July 1.

DR. MORGAN TO QUIT COLLEGE

Tenders Resignation After Serving Institution in Various Capacities 50 Years.

Fifty years after his graduation from Dickinson college, Dr. James Henry Morgan tendered to the board of trustees his resignation as president of that institution, the position he has held since 1914. Doctor Morgan has been instrumental in raising the Carlisle college to a high rank among the smaller eastern colleges, increasing its endowment to nearly a million dollars and enlarging the student body to 500 students, the number of enrollments permitted by its charter. The resignation is to take effect in June, 1929.

Bucknell university in 1892 conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Pennsylvania college, now Gettysburg, made him a Doctor of Laws in 1916, while Franklin and Marshall conferred the same honor upon him the following year and the University of Pittsburgh in 1919. Wesleyan university conferred a Doctor of Divinity on him in 1917.

As a part of the 145th commencement which will be marked on Monday, the cornerstone of the new gymnasium was laid with fitting ceremonies this afternoon. At a meeting of the board of trustees it was decided to open college a week later in the fall and consequently hold commencement a week later.

Southern Cross Which Spanned Pacific Ocean

OCEAN FLIERS WILL CONTINUE

Nearly Out of Gas When Landing Is Made at Wheeler Field, Honolulu.

Honolulu, June 2.—(AP)—The trimotored monoplane Southern Cross landed at Wheeler field at noon yesterday, completing the first leg of a 7788-mile adventure from California to Australia.

The 2400-mile ocean hop was made in twenty-seven hours and twenty-eight minutes. A race with a fast-failing gasoline supply developed in the closing hours of the flight, and there were tense moments when the plane's radio, which had sent out a dramatic account of the hopes, fears and emotion of the crew of four, flashed a message, "Guess we are lost."

Fifth Air Crossing There was little fuel to spare when the Fokker came to a halt after its long cruise. It was the fifth time the perilous air passage had been negotiated.

Commanded by Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and with a crew of Charles T. P. Ulm, relief pilot; James Warner, radio operator, and Lieutenant Harry Lyon, navigator, the plane took off from Oakland at 8:51 a. m., Pacific time, Thursday.

"We had a beautiful trip; no trouble at all," said Kingsford-Smith, first to leave the plane amid the plaudits of the Hawaiian populace. "We will continue, as planned, to Suva."

May Hop Off Today If the schedule is followed the fliers will hop off within a day or two on the second leg of 3100 miles to Suva, on the tiny Fiji islands. The takeoff will be from a specially constructed runway on the sands of Kauai island.

Escorted by army and navy planes, the Southern Cross came over Wheeler field, circle and taxied down in front of the reviewing stand, where more than 2000 people had gathered for the welcome. Governor Wallace R. Farrington, of Hawaii, was first to greet the crew.

About 10 o'clock Thursday night the plane experienced its only trouble, when it was caught in a downward air current and its radio was silenced after flashing out the brief message, "Hit an air pocket."

For more than an hour there was silence and anxiety ashore grew as radio listeners remembered a similar message last summer from the Dallas Spirit, piloted by Captain Will Ervin, who with his navigator, A. H. Eichwaldt, lost his life while attempting to locate the missing Dole air race fliers.

But suddenly the radio pulsed again and the ship was reported out of danger, with only a loss of altitude.

Former Burgess Leaves For West

Having accepted a position as national representative of a New York clothing company, John Raymond, Springs avenue, who served a term as Burgess of Gettysburg, will leave Gettysburg Sunday for the west.

Mr. Raymond, a native of Philadelphia, came to Gettysburg 32 years ago when the local furniture industry was in its infancy, and since then he has been associated in various capacities with that business. The last position he held was that of shipping clerk for the Gettysburg furniture company.

He served as Burgess of Gettysburg from 1914 to 1918. Last year he was defeated for the Democratic nomination for county treasurer.

TO RETURN MAN TO JAIL HERE MRS. MALONE IS FINED BY SQUIRE

Graduate of College to be Tried on Serious Charge; Hold N. Y. Hearing.

District Attorney John P. Butt, state and local police and city witnesses went to New York city on Friday to appear against John R. Scott, of Mt. Carmel, a graduate of Gettysburg college in 1927, at a habeas corpus hearing, after which the officers expect to bring Scott back to Gettysburg to face two statutory charges.

Scott, who was graduated from Gettysburg college last June, was arrested recently in New York city on two warrants, furnished by the local authorities, sworn out on behalf of a Gettysburg girl. The accused man is said to have secured his liberty under $3,000 bond. Accompanying the prosecuting attorney to New York were Trooper C. B. Robenolt, of the state police; Detective Charles H. Wilson and Helen and Betty Paxton, the latter two witnesses.

Effort To Break Plane Altitude Record Fails

Efforts to break the altitude record of the Eaglerock planes, two of which are used at the airport of the Gettysburg flying service, failed Friday afternoon when Pilot Paul Charles and Walt G. Haines, automobile racing driver and aviator, were unable to take the plane higher than 11,975 feet, due to atmospheric conditions. The altitude for an Eaglerock is approximately 50 feet higher.

Mr. Haines came to Gettysburg with the Marmon automobile caravan of five straight-eight Marmon cars which were displayed here most of Friday on York street just beyond the square and attracted wide general interest. Mr. Haines is associated with the Marmon Philadelphia company, distributors for this territory. Accompanying him were R. T. Naisley, wholesale manager of the Marmon Philadelphia company, and George M. Howard, Marmon factory representative.

Assessed $25 on Alleged Reckless Driving Charge by Cashtown Justice.

Mrs. Jean Feild Malone, Gililand apartments, was fined $25 and $3.50 costs on a charge of alleged reckless driving by Squire Clyde Shultz, of Cashtown, she was notified by the latter who reserved his decision at the hearing held last Saturday evening at his home at Cashtown. Mrs. Malone was allowed until June 5 to file notice of her appeal from the decision.

Mrs. Malone was charged by Corporal McCormick, of the Chambersburg station of the state highway patrol, of having passed another machine while ascending the mountain west of Cashtown on Sunday, May 6. She was first charged with improper passing but this charge was later changed to reckless driving when she asked for a hearing before a magistrate.

According to the testimony offered by Mrs. Malone at her hearing she had a clear view of more than 300 feet, the distance required by law, when she passed the other car.

Due to the fact that with her husband, Capt. E. H. Malone, she will sail for Honolulu during July, Mrs. Malone has not decided whether or not to appeal the case.

Myers Treasurer Of State Democrats

Lewistown, June 2.—(AP)—Meredith M. Myers, Lewistown editor, today was notified of his appointment as treasurer of the Democratic state committee by State Chairman John R. Collins, of Connersport.

The appointment adds to the similarity of the careers of the new treasurer and his grandfather, Benjamin F. Myers. Both were editors, both ran for congress in the shoestring district and both now have been treasurers of the state committees. The grandfather won the congressional fight in 1872, but the present state treasurer lost in the Coolidge landslide of 1924.

Lives Secluded 14 Years After Lover's Quarrel

Key West, Fla., June 2.—(AP)

—A girl who 14 years ago imprisoned herself with a vow that her lover never again would see her face is dead, faithful to her oath.

The girl, Julia Colon, a pretty Cuban senorita, whose hair reached to her knees, quarrelled with her sweetheart when she was thirteen. "I never want to see your face again," he told her in a flare of anger, and as heatedly she vowed he would not and retired to a room in her aunt's home, where only once since, prior to a fatal illness, had anyone, even a close relative, seen her.

The lover returned and pleaded for forgiveness but the door remained closed. Food was given her through a small opening. She made her own clothes.

CHANGES IN WATER RATES CONTEMPLATED

Local Company Would Have Minimum Charge For Each Apartment In Borough.

Owners of apartment houses here are expected to band together to protest to the public service commission a proposed upward revision in rates announced today by the Gettysburg water company, a subsidiary of the North American water works company.

Unless protests are carried to the commission, a new multiple minimum rate for buildings, containing apartments and stores, which would boost considerably the present minimum charges for water for such buildings, will become effective July 1.

Copies of the supplement, filed by the water company with the public service commission, changing the definition of commercial consumers and adding a rule to provide for the multiple minimum charge, were received today by the owners of buildings which would be affected by the changes.

Under the present schedule of tariffs, to buildings containing apartments, stores, offices and shops, the commercial rate is applicable, and the owner pays only one minimum meter charge of $24 a year. But under the proposed schedule, owners of such structures will be charged the minimum residential rate of $18 a year for each apartment, store, office or shop in their buildings.

Rate Lower; Pay More Thus, while the minimum meter rate is lowered, the aggregate minimum charge will be far in excess of the amount now paid.

For example, the owner of a building in which there is a store, an office and three apartments has been paying the commercial minimum of $24 a year for his water. Under the proposed tariff, the owner will pay a yearly minimum of $90, based on five residential minimums of $18 each.

In an apartment building where a shop, office or other business uses more than the minimum 20,000 gallons of water a year, the water registered by the meter will be divided by the number of consumers. The consumption rates will then be applied to determine whether the bill exceeds the minimum and if it does the charge will be in accordance with the amount determined by the application of the consumption rates, according to the company's new tariff.

Under the prevailing commercial rates, the charge for from 1 to 1,000 gallons of water used per day in excess of that allowed under the minimum rate is 25 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Under the residential schedule which will become applicable with the introduction of the proposed change in apartment house rates, the rate for from 1 to 500 gallons of water used per day in excess of the minimum rate is 50 cents per 1,000 gallons and 25 cents per 1,000 gallons extra per day.

Public institutions, which will continue with the commercial rate, (Continued on Second Page.)

CHANGE 'PHONE DIRECTORIES

Bell Telephone Company Distributing New Books in This Territory.

Beginning today the new summer edition of The Bell Telephone directory is being delivered to subscribers in this vicinity.

Announcement is made by J. K. Sherk, manager of the telephone company here, that, in addition to being the largest directory ever delivered in this section, it contains a number of improvements that are outstanding both in appearance and usefulness.

The new directories contain the listings of subscribers in nearly one hundred exchanges in nine counties in this section.

Manager Sherk states in compiling the new directory a great deal of attention was paid to the type arrangement in order that the information contained in it would be clear and legible.

The front cover this time is a new design that is not only more pleasing in appearance, but contains a brief comprehensive guide to important high spots in the directory. In a prominent place it calls attention to the fact that, in an emergency, the subscriber should either dial or call the operator and say, "I want to report a fire," "I want a policeman," "I want an ambulance," according to the nature of the call.

For the convenience of its subscribers, the first page in the new directory has been designed for the listing of names, addresses and telephone numbers of out-of-town friends whose numbers are not included in this directory. Instructions on the placing of out-of-town calls has also been included on page one.

Another feature that appears in the new directory for the first time is a map on page 2, which shows the day station-to-station rates for some out-of-town calls between points covered by the directory. The map shows at a glance the distance that can be covered from one telephone to another at surprisingly low rates.

Other important features are the index on page 3, which is offered as a guide to the public in locating information desired within the information pages; the list of managers for the territory covered by the directory, together with their addresses and telephone numbers, is found on page 4. The monthly rates for different classes of telephone service in different sections in the district is also a new feature and is covered on page 14. A list of rates to a number of out-of-town points are covered on pages 11 and 12, and a list of points to which calls can be made with the same speed as local calls and without the subscriber having to hang up the receiver after giving the number to the operator is included on page 13.

The list of emergency calls, such as various fire company stations, etc., formerly shown on the first listing page has been revised and transferred to page 14.

include hotels, schools, colleges, photograph galleries, public buildings, garages, steam laundries, railroads, power houses, cold storage plants, dentists' offices with flush cuspidors, drug stores with soda fountains, livery stables, churches with organ motors, creameries and milk stations, breweries, botteries, shirt factories, foundries, mills, refrigeration plants, brickyards, public playgrounds, tanneries and all large consumers of water.

Justifies Change
According to C. C. Bream, office manager for the local water company, the company will gladly install separate meters for each store, office, shop or apartment in a building, provided the owner makes the necessary changes in the plumbing. By such changes, the owner of the property would let each consumer of water pay for the amount he uses, instead of running it all through a common meter and dividing by the number of places of business or residence in the building to determine if the amount used is in excess of that allowed under the minimum rate.

According to Mr. Bream, the company justifies its proposed change in rates for apartments by the fact that owners of blocks of separate houses have always paid it, while owners of apartment houses have been slipping by with only one minimum charge on their properties.

2062 FOREST FIRES SO FAR

Number Greatly Over 1927, But Is Still Below Average, Official Says.

Harrisburg, June 2.—(AP)—For the first five months of this year 2062 forest fires have been reported to the department of forests and waters, George H. Wirt, chief of the bureau of forest protection, said Friday.

Although this is almost twice as many fires as were reported for the same period in 1927, Mr. Wirt said that the total to date for this year is below the average. It was due to the exceedingly wet spring last year that only 1247 fires were reported.

To date 81,379 acres of Pennsylvania forest lands have been burned over.

CONGRESSMAN HELD IN THEFT

Former Representative at Washington Indicted For Part in Mail Robbery.

Chicago, June 2.—(AP)—Charles S. Wharton, former congressman and former assistant state's attorney, was indicted with six others in connection with the $133,000 mailtrain robbery at Evergreen Park last February 25.

The indictment charged the actual participants in the robbery had gone to Wharton's home in his absence, divided the loot there and left $4000 for the Chicago criminal-law lawyer, presumably as a legal fee should they be caught.

Among those indicted with Wharton were Charles (Limpy) Cleaver, alleged head of the band; William Donovan, Frank Meccia, Lawrence O'Brien, Virgil Litsinger and John Flannery.

Litsinger, nephew of a Chicago politician, and Flannery, pal of "Midget" Forenkes, notorious gunman, now in Joliet Penitentiary, still are at large. Two other alleged members of the robber band have been killed since the hold-up, both, the police believe, by members of their own band.

Wharton's bonds were placed at $10,000 and those of the others at $100,000 each. Wharton's home in Beverly Hills was searched immediately after the robbery. Government agents said they found locks from some of the mail pouches in an adjacent vacant lot. Federal agents said they had tapped telephone wires and listened to a conversation in which Cleaver told a man at Wharton's home where the loot left for Wharton could be found. About one-third of the loot has been recovered, some of it in Cleaver's home.

While Wharton also is named as an actual participant in the robbery, federal officials said they expected to convict only for conspiracy, which carries a maximum sentence of two years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. O'Brien and Donovan are reported to have made the confessions implicating Wharton.

What Indictment Charges

The indictment charges Cleaver and Donovan procured machine guns in the robbery, that these two and Meccia obtained dynamite used to blow the doors of the mail car open, and that Willie Jackson and Louis Padersony, both since slain, stole the automobile used in the getaway, that all except Wharton made bombs the night before the robbery.

Federal agents said the robbery had been cleaned up with yesterday's action.

Part of the evidence was obtained through wives or sweethearts of some of the robbers, disgruntled at the small amount of loot they received.

TO USE BUG TO FIGHT BEETLES

Harrisburg, June 2.—(AP)—New tactics in the war against the Japanese beetle are to be employed by the state and federal agricultural authorities this year to control the spread of the pest.

The state bureau of plant industry today announced it is contemplating the importation from Japan of several hundred Centerer Cinerea, a small insect which lives off the larvae of the beetle, for use in the outlying districts of the quarantine area in and around this city.

STOCK REPORT

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Disregarding tightening credit conditions prices ran up briskly in today's stock market. Buying orders were distributed over a broad list with the public utility, copper, farm implements and food shares giving the best exhibitions of group strength. A sensational buying movement in General Motors which ran up more than 6 points to 200 featured the late dealing.

This fear was unfounded, however, according to Navigator Lyon, who reported on landing that the ship had not been lost.

"An interisland steamship navigator for four years and not able to find the island?" he questioned scornfully.

Almost continuously throughout the flight the radio transmitting set of the plane kept the world informed of the craft's progress. In the flight's later stages the operator reported battery trouble prevented reception, but perfect transmission continued.

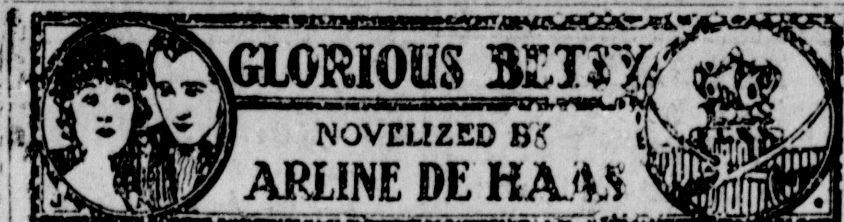

Clouds Taken For Land
Two hours before the craft landed the laconic message "Guess we are lost" was picked up. Earlier the fliers reported sighting land, but this erroneous report was followed by the explanation that "These clouds are fooling us. We thought we had sighted land, but

All ready to hop in non-stop flight from New York to Berlin—which she's pointing out on atlas—is Thea Rasche, the German aviatrix, who says she's Dutch on mother's side. She'll take the air soon after June 10.

At noon the Southern Cross reported: "We soon will be there now. Crossing Oahu, nearing Wheeler Field." Then the ship passed over Honolulu and headed for Wheeler field, twenty miles away, where it landed within eighteen minutes.
The radio beacon had been lost 300 miles out from San Francisco, and Navigator Lyon said the Wheeler field beacon never had been picked up, thus forcing the craft to fly 2100 miles blind without the protecting radio beam.
Two ships were sighted, the Maliko and the Manoa, while other ships were communicated with by radio.

GLORIOUS BETSY

NOVELIZED BY
ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"GLORIOUS BETSY," starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. picture production of this novel. Based on the play by Kida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS

Excess Springs Inn is the scene of an early morning duel over a miniature of Betsy Patterson. Her French tutor, La Vert, wins the duel and the miniature from Preston, who boasted that Betsy had given it to him. Strolling in the garden, La Vert meets Betsy, who has been reading in the street on a bench. She chides him for his unmanliness and lack of ambition. He says nothing of the duel, but, in turn, mocks the scotchness of her cavaliers. When he returns to the inn he is discharged by Betsy's father for insolence. At that moment Betsy returns barefoot from her arboreal adventure.

"Some man! Some men, Mademoiselle," Monsieur La Vert corrected petulantly. But he moved towards the front of the portico, his chin sunk on his stock; his right hand across his breast and half hidden within his vest. "I said to the corner of Beche-lor's Row," Betsy was laughing. "Not another step further! Ogh! That's a rough bit! Sir Harry, give me my slippers." Betsy stretched out her hand to the black haired Irishman with the laughing blue eyes, who had been tenderly guarding her slippers and hose. She took the slippers and hastily thrust her feet into them, and then ran up to the porch and soundly

"And they all encourage me."

Kissed Miss Massenbird on both cheeks. "You look so blooming this morn'g, Auntie, dear," Betsy laughed. "What have you done to yourself?" "If I am blooming, it is a blush of shame for you," Miss Massenbird returned sharply.

"Oh, dear, you're not angry with me?" Betsy pouted most becomingly and brought a look of pleading to the eyes of her escorts. "You're always wanting Mary and me to rise early in the morning. We thought you'd be pleased."

"Then you must have a very erroneous conception of my moral character," Miss Massenbird returned.

"Oh, Auntie Ellen, your character's dear, but—do look!" Betsy pointed a finger in the direction of the first tutor, whom she noticed for the first time. "Don't move, Monsieur! Stay just as you are. There, now, doesn't he look the image of Napoleon Bonaparte? Doesn't he?"

The others stared, and then nodded assent. For Betsy was indeed right. The man had unconsciously fallen into a pose typical of the famous French general, and his position made the likeness doubly striking.

"Umph!" Miss Massenbird sniffed. "I wish there was some of the great man's blood in Mr. La Vert's veins that he might conquer your evil, scandalous ways. Mr. John Calhoun," she turned sharply to the tall young man who was gazing enraptured at the slightest movement of her niece, "if you knew how supremely ridiculous you look dangling those—those—articles about, you would desist."

Calhoun looked down at the articles in his hand, and then hastily attempted to thrust them into his pocket. Betsy giggled irrepressibly.

"In my days, if a girl had gone barefooted, she would have been put in stocks," Miss Massenbird began.

"Stocks, you mean, don't you, Aunt Ellen?" Betty returned innocently.

"Stocks," I said; "wooden stocks."

"Oh, well, if that's all you're displeased about, don't scold me," Betsy coaxed, patting her aunt's hand. "It's all Sir Harry Blake's fault. He dared and boasted about his independent Irish girls, and you know, dear Aunt Ellen, I simply cannot take a dare. And they all encouraged me—every one of them!"

"Well, you know, Betty," Harry P. Blake diffidently, and lowering his eyes, "I told you—you might take cold."

"You'll take cold yourself, Henry!"

BEAT ORPHANS SECOND TIME

Maroon and White Windup Season With Victory Over Scotland School.

Gettysburg high school wound up their baseball season yesterday with a close 6-5 decision over the Scotland orphans' baseball aggregation on the playground. This victory gave the Maroons six victories and four losses for the season.

The Maroons let the game slip out of their hands in the seventh when four errors put the visitors on close quarters. Until that session the locals were never menaced and looked like easy winners.

Bob Hurley hurled for eight innings and pitched big league ball the entire way. He whiffed no less than fourteen batsmen in his workout and with better support would have escaped the seventh inning storm.

Knox, Kennedy and Appler led the offense with two blows apiece, Knox's second hit driving in Bream with the winning run in the last of the ninth. Hoover collected two singles to lead his club.

The Maroons washed up the enemy in quick order in the first and then tallied four markers. Sheely walked and Bream popped to Furlley. Roddy was saved on Ritter's fumble. Kennedy, Wilson and Appler crashed singles to score a quartet of runs. Another run was scored in the fifth when Sheely drew the second of his four walks, went to second unassisted, took third on Bream's infield roller and scored as Roddy was thrown out.

Sheely made the fielding feature of the game in the sixth. With two out and men on second and third, Patterson hit directly over second, but Sheely killed an almost sure hit with a fine stop and throw, staving off a pair of runs.

The visitors suddenly broke forth in the seventh and scored four runs on four errors, a stolen base and a single. Knox toiled on the mound in the ninth for the locals and was touched for a run. Davis was hit, Dunbar fanned, and Leshar was safe on Roddy's muff. Hoover then singled tying the count.

The Maroons finally ended the game in the last of the ninth. Gilbert whiffed, but Sheely drew his fourth walk of the day. Bream singled to left but Sheely was pinched at third when he overslid the bag. Roddy scratched an infield and Knox broke up the game with a long hit to right.

Out of the Past

Happenings of Days Gone by as Chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times, the Files Reveal.

TEN YEARS AGO

Gettysburg and Its Relation to the World War: How the spirit of Gettysburg has been projected into World War across the seas was vividly pictured this afternoon in the Memorial Day address by Bishop William F. McDowell. He delivered an oration that was filled with the spirit of honor for all Americans who fought on either side during the Civil War, of pride in this country's entering the present mighty conflict for principles, and of confidence in the ultimate triumph of democracy. Such was the theme of the oration delivered by Bishop McDowell in the Soldiers' National cemetery.

Military Holds Sway in Parade: Soldiers of three wars participated in today's memorial celebration at Gettysburg. Headed by a battalion of tankers from Camp Colt, the procession through the town to the National cemetery was distinctly a military event. A large representation of veterans of the Civil War in their regulation blue brought up the rear, while the Spanish American war veterans who were present were given a place between the soldiers of today and those of more than half a century ago.

Captain A. J. Halton, of Camp Colt, was marshal of the parade. This was a distinct innovation, as it has been the custom for years to have a civilian in charge. Captain Halton had with his assistant Lieutenant W. S. Roberson.

After the usual service the exercises at the rostrum were begun. Dr. T. C. Billheimer presided. The prayer was offered by Dr. J. A. Singmaster, and John D. Keith, Esq., read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The orator of the day, Bishop William T. McDowell, of Washington, was introduced by Dr. R. S. Oyster, formerly of this place. The benediction was pronounced by Dr. J. A. Clutz.

Goes To Tarring Camp: William Weaver, of Baltimore street, is one of the fifteen boys from Gettysburg college who left today to take up the summer course at the Reserve Officers' Training camp at Plattsburg.

Fair-Redding: At the Lutheran parsonage in Emmitsburg Tuesday evening, Cleason G. Fair and Miss Myrtle A. Redding, both of Gettysburg, were married by the Rev. Charles Reinwald, D. D.

Beers-Bream: On Saturday, the Rev. David T. Koser, of Arendtsville, married John J. Beers, of Victor, New York, and Miss Faith M. Bream, of Cashtown.

They will make their home in New York.

Patriotism At Commencement: Thirty-three graduates of the Gettysburg high school were awarded their diplomas at the annual commencement exercises in Xavier hall Tuesday evening. One of the number, James Lowell Kissinger, is in the service of his country, and was not present.

The note of service was prominent in all the exercises of the evening beginning with the salutatory by Ruth Spangler, who spoke of the future of the class and the opportunities it would have in store for them; then the discussion by Emilie Scharf of the many phases of school service in war time; the six short talks on the "Winning of the War" by Radford Lippy, David Daugherty, Roy Winebrenner, Francis Stable, Henry McDonnell and Ray Rice; the interesting discussion of "Bread in Peace and War" by four members of the Household Arts department, Mary Miller, Blanche Hoffman, Frances Wible and Gladys Raymond, and the call to active service in the world by Raymond F. Topper, who addressed the graduates.

As in other years A. B. Plank had charge of the stage decorations and the stage was one of the most beautiful he has executed. The red, white and blue in a tastefully arranged lattice work enclosed the two sides and the rear and through this lattice were many groups of three circles in which hung lighted lanterns of the national colors. Dozens of the lanterns were suspended above the stage, and the front was a mass of flowers and plants.

"Memories" was the vehicle for the class prophecy and four qualities of disposition represented themselves, "Mischievous," "Mirth," "Ambition" and "Vanity," and told to other members what had become of their classmates. Hannah Cook gave the prologue to the skit and the other members were May Stover, Helen Drais, Miriam Taylor, Constance Weaver, Ruth Stallsmith and Ruth Zeiders.

"A Diagnosis" was the formidable title given to the presentation of gifts. The usual remarkable contraptions produced by C. K. Little again appeared.

The D. A. R. prize essay, "The Beginning of Democracy in America," was read by Blanche Toops and Kenneth Hartman gave an oration "In the Wake of the Modern Hun." Raymond F. Topper made the address to the graduates and the presentation of prizes followed.

I. L. Taylor presented the diplomas and Blanche Toops gave the valedictory. The class sang "One United Land" and after the benediction by the Rev. W. R. Glenn, the thirty-first commencement was at its close.

Service Flag To The High School: At the seventeenth annual meeting of the Gettysburg high school alumni association held in Gladfelter hall, Friday evening, a service flag was presented to the school by the class of 1913 in honor of the fifth anniversary of their graduation.

Twenty-two stars on the flag represent that many graduates of the Gettysburg schools now in the service; Miss Beulah Armor, Ross McAllister, James Long, Charles Culp, John Fiscel, Clyde Bream, John Rupp, W. Ernest Ziegler, Earl Deardorff, Will Taylor, Cornell Taylor, J. Claire Sowers, Russel Stouffer, William Blair, Albert Menchey, Guyon Miller, Walter E. Martin, Donald Stewart, David Yohe, Myrtle Ernst, Robert Misher and James Lowell Kissinger.

At a business meeting these officers were elected for the year: President, David Blocher; vice president, John McLaughy; secretary, Miss Ivy Tawney; treasurer, Mahlon Hartley.

Exactly one hundred were present at the affair, which was an entire success.

Personal: Mrs. Anna Lake, of Center Square, has gone to York to visit at the home of Doctor Enders.

A GOLFER SENDS FOR THE DOCTOR

The doctor came to my troubled bed
And he felt my pulse and he felt my head,
And he heard me moan and he heard me sigh,
And I thought every minute he'd see me die.

He heard me sneeze and he heard me cough
But all that he said was: "How's your golf?"

My cheeks were flushed and my eyes were red,
My pillow felt like a chunk of lead,
My lips were dry and my hands were hot
And I tossed in pain on my little cot.

But the doctor looked at my tortured frame
And all that he asked was: "How's your game?"

The doctor smiled as he heard me moan,
The doctor grinned at my saddest tone,
He nodded his head as I winced in pain,
And he said: "You'll soon be well again."

Just take these pills and stay in bed,
Now let's talk golf for awhile instead.

Said I to him with my fiercest look:
"I didn't want you to cure my hook.
I'm a very sick man and it isn't nice,
I didn't want you to cure my slice."

It's not for my game that I pay your fee,
I'll cure my golf, if you'll cure me."

Dog Hill Paragraphs

By GEORGE BINGHAM

With the arrival of Spring, Luke Mathews reports that his long whisks are again showing signs of life, and he would enter them at the Tickville Fair, if he wouldn't have to stay there with them.

There is going to be a Fair at Bounding Billows right soon, if the weather turns warm so that the prize chickens won't have to stand on one foot with their heads tucked under their wings.

The Storekeeper at Bounding Billows has lowered his front porch since his wife has gone to wearing short skirts.

shouted Danny Fox just as I ended the last story. Dearest me, how the two poor little rabbits trembled and shook! And maybe, and most certainly, something dreadful would have happened in a moment or three if just then someone hadn't grabbed the wicked fox's tail.

"Ouch, ouch!" he cried, turning about with a snarl. But when he saw the Big Brown Bear, he sang another tune.

"Oh, please let go of my tail, Mr. Bear."

In a minute or three it won't have a hair
If you pull on it so. Oh, please let it go,
And I'll hurry straight home to my lair."

"Look here, Danny Fox," growled the Big Brown Bear. "Your promises are worth nothing," and he gave the old fox's tail another pinch that made his eyes wink. "I'll let you go this time, but if I ever catch you again bothering Uncle Lucky and his bunny nephews, I'll cut off your tail with my big jackknife," and after another pinch, the Big Brown Bear loosened his hold.

"Now you can come out of your little bungalow," cried the kind old Bear, as Danny Fox disappeared among the trees. So out hopped the two little rabbits.

"How did you know that we were inside?" asked the little bunny.

"As soon as I noticed the Lucky-mobile, I knew that Danny Fox was trying to catch you," answered the wise old Bear.

Well, by this time it was morning and Mr. Merry Sun was smiling down from the Blue Sky Country, so the little rabbits hopped into the Lucky-mobile. "Don't you want to take a ride with us?" asked polite Uncle Lucky, but the Big Brown Bear shook his head and explained that he was on his way to the Three-in-One Cent Store to buy his wife a summer straw bonnet with a pink ribbon on it. And off he went, and off drove the little rabbits who by and by, after a while and a sunny old mile came to a haystack which belonged to a long-legged grasshopper. Being a clever sort of an insect, he had raked up the hay with his hind legs and piled it up high with his front ones. On the top he had placed a sign on which was printed in big red letters: "Grasshopper Hay House."

"Let's make him a call," suggested the little rabbit, being a curious little furry person. Besides, he had never been in a hay house.

"What can I do for you?" asked the old Grasshopper, in answer to the little rabbit's tipperly tap.

"We'd like to see your house," stammered the little bunny.

"Howdy, Mr. Grasshopper," laughed Uncle Lucky, with a polite bow, as he doffed his precious stovepipe hat. "We think you've made a mighty nice sort of a bungalow."

"Very well, come in," answered Mr. Grasshopper.

So in hopped the two little rabbits. "S-s-s-sh!" cautioned Mr. Grasshopper, pointing to Mrs. Grasshopper, who was rocking her baby to sleep in a tiny straw cradle. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

FIVE, ON FOOT, HUNT ITALIA

Hunter and Alpinists Prosecute Search Over Arctic Wastes; Nothing Heard.

King's Bay, Spitzbergen, June 1. —(AP)—While at least a half dozen air expeditions were being organized in Europe to search for the missing dirigible Italia, five men were slowly making their way by foot in an effort to reach the lonely region where the Italia is thought to have come down.

A Spitzbergen hunter and four Italian alpinists were proceeding along Red Bay in northern Spitzbergen and will try to go east over the glaciers to reach the most easterly winter house on Mosel Bay.

If the Italia landed or crashed over land, it was thought at King's Bay that she will be found on Northeast Land, a large desolate island, northeast of Spitzbergen.

The sealer Hobby which is expected at Spitzbergen on Sunday will search for open water near the land on the north coast so that it can press forward to the east and will search for the Italia's crew in the winter houses on Northeast Land.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LUCK

I BELIEVE in luck, but when you ask me what luck is I shall have to reply that I don't know! Unless it is something that comes your way, after you have grabbed it by the tail and pulled it to you. Luck is the most elusive article, or proposition, or idea, or whatever you want to name it, that there is. When you want it around it isn't. When it is around, you aren't. And so it goes. A sort of blind man's bluff game.

But luck is real just the same. There is luck. Luck is made by taking it! And it is rather a thing of choice. It won't keep coming to you. You must go to it. Like a beautiful woman, you must court luck.

I know men who point to their entire careers as a matter of luck. Much of what this writer has achieved he attributes to luck. People who are blind in their mind, however, are never lucky. You have to have good eyes and an alert spirit to coax luck your way.

A boy seeks for work in the world. He takes the first job offered. He doesn't mind the small pay. He works and works and works. He doesn't watch the clock. He is thoughtful toward those with whom he works.

This boy is promoted—again and again. In a few years he owns the business where he worked as the unknown office boy. A big crowd gathers and says: "What a lucky man!"

I thought of this when I went into the great Marshall Field store in Chicago recently. It was Marshall Field himself who was an office boy and stock clerk for Potter Palmer in those early days. Yes, Field was lucky—and successful. He left the greatest store in the world as his monument.

This will be your lucky day—if you want it to be! And want it to be hard enough.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear mother, Mrs. G. R. Haverstick, who departed this life one year ago today, June 2, 1927.
Farewell, dear mother, sweet thy rest,
Weary with years and worn with pain,
Farewell, till in some happy place
We shall behold thy face again.

Short and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought her death so near.

Farewell, dear mother, thou art at rest,
And will forever be,
You could not stay on earth with us,
But we can come to thee.

You are busy these days. It is the busiest season of the year, particularly in the country. One lady who lives a few miles from Gettysburg told us the other day that she had not been to town for three weeks, and that she and her husband had come then simply because they needed provisions.

During this busy season we are wondering if this store can't be of additional service.

Our telephone is working splendidly. Uncle Sam is still operating the mail routes.

Bank By Day or Night

Two years ago this bank installed a powerful, drill proof Night Deposit Safe for the use of its customers. A steel chute, embedded in the wall, connects the customers outside with this safe. The chute is guarded by a heavy bronze outside door and customers may have a key to this door upon request.

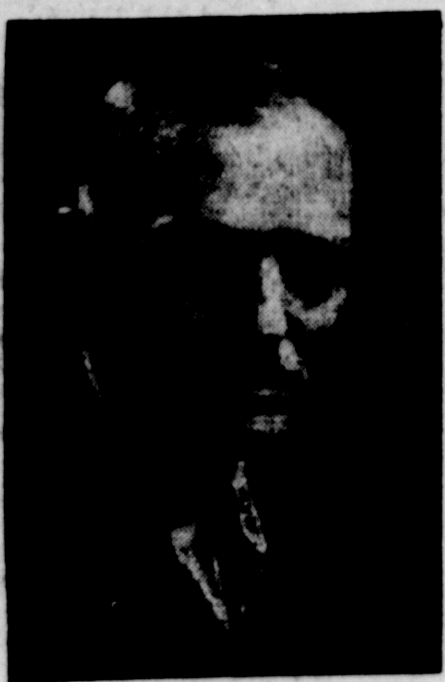

A lock bag for carrying your funds is also furnished and must be used in connection with any deposits placed in the Night Safe. The process is simple. If you wish to bank your money after hours, place same in lock bag and drop into the chute. Next business day you call and get the locked bag, unlock same and deposit contents to your credit and our service will have saved you a lot of worry.
